Molekine Pen Holder : How To Background :   Big fan of Moleskines.
I've followed several pen hacks posted online though none have really worked well for me.
My Mam came up with the following solution...
Big fan of my Mam!

You will need :   Approx 4cm wide x 63cm long black elastic ribbon
Use of sewing machine (or someone to sew for you)
Black thread, tape measure and scissors

NB :   The following pen hack is for the A5 Moleskine Notebooks.
Elastic ribbon can be bought from any good haberdashery
e.g. HobbyCraft etc.
Adjust lengths accordingly for whatever Moleskine you are making it for.

Step One : Neaten both ends of the elastic ribbon using a zigzag stitch on the sewing machine to prevent fraying (trim edges and stray thread with scissors to neaten).

Step Two : Fold up approx. 12cm from one end and stitch down both sides of the edges to create your 'pen pocket' (TIP: pin down the sides first to check the pen you use fits perfectly).

Step Three :   To finish, overlap both ends by 0.5cm and sew, creating your very own Gnat Gnat Molekine Pen Holder.
